About the trainer

Ms Ang Sock Tiang has extensive work experiences in real estate valuation and property tax administration. Graduated from the University of Singapore, she started her career as a valuer with the Inland Revenue Authority of Singapore (IRAS) and rose to head the Property Tax Department in 2003 during which she was appointed the “Chief Assessor” responsible for the annual value assessment of all properties in Singapore. At the same time, she was also appointed “Chief Valuer” by the President of Singapore, a role which required her to offer valuation advisory on all disposal and lease of State properties.

Her expertise covers the policy formulation and administration of property tax and stamp duty, and the valuation of all types of properties including the highly specialised and unique ones. She oversaw and was involved in many landmark property tax appeal cases and high signature valuation assignments.

Following her retirement from the public sector, she was appointed adjunct associate professor with NUS, and has been conducting courses and training relating to the valuation of real estate and property tax at academic and professional institutions in Singapore and overseas. She has authored a book “Property Tax in Singapore – A Practical Guide” in Dec 2020. She is currently appointed a panel assessor to the Appeals Board (Land Acquisition). Apart from providing valuation and property tax consultancy, she also conducts undergraduate and postgraduate course on “Real Estate Valuation & Taxation” at SMU.
